

Report from the ChUGS Winter Meeting 2019

Ed Hannon

BAPS Winter Meeting also saw the first meeting of the newly formed UGI interest group - which during the meeting was unanimously named ChUGS or Children's Upper GI Surgery Network.

The business meeting covered establishing the groups aims, objectives and the way the group will run.

This will be a series of 2 video conference meetings per year to which complex cases can be referred and discussed in a national forum. There will then be a meeting at congress and one at the Winter meeting.

Ideas for collaboration and research were also discussed.

Excellent talks were provided by Matthew Jones (Sub-specialisation in OA) and Nigel Hall (Managing collaboration in research). The over all feeling was that the meeting was a success and we look forward to working together in the future.

If you would like to be involved in the group please contact us on leedsth-tr.complexugi@nhs.net